WELCOME TO THE LATEST NEWS FROM EREVENA

It's been a quarter of continued improvement in market conditions. Our investment colleagues in VC and PE are all reporting higher levels of activity and that is filtering through to an increase in hiring.

Companies are still having to adjust to tough market conditions, and this is leading to lots of mandates where deep experience and resilience are the key traits we are being asked to search for.

We have also seen a big uptick in CEO and President type searches, some of which are listed below. Founder fatigue is a live issue and we have been lucky enough to help a number of them plan their next chapters.

We have concluded some brilliant work so far this year, the team has much to be proud of. We are optimistic that macro trends like AI and Climate will continue to drive the VC sector for the next cycle, whilst our PE clients are finding value in the technology sector again. All in all, we have many reasons to be cheerful, onward!
